

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law protections. This law has improved my home life because I have two small children, one of whom I'm nursing, and this law has made a difference in the quality of time I can spend with my family. This law has been very effective in preventing unwanted phone calls to my home. I used to receive multiple calls on a daily basis and now I seldom receive any. I do not want my published phone number to be a tool for marketers! I think this law is important because it also protects consumers from people who use the phone to commit fraud. PLEASE keep this law in effect. It is an important step in preserving the privacy of your home. Thank you - Traci Titus
